SIGN & AWNING INSTALLATION

A new restaurant went up in our service range recently and we installed two of their building signs and two of the awnings. The channel letters in the signs were all LED lit.

We surveyed the location first to provide accurate measurements of the building frame and windows. The precise dimensions are not only needed to create the signs and awnings to fit perfectly on the building, but are needed for the township or city to confirm they are within the zoning restrictions.

Once the finalized signs and awning sizes were confirmed we worked with the township to obtain the required permits.

When permitting was approved, we scheduled and worked with the building contractor to gain access to the ceiling to make all necessary electrical connections. The signs are fully lit and the location will have sturdy awnings in place in time for the grand opening.

It's time to get your garden ready for this upcoming summer! Looking for something to spice it up this year? We gathered some new plants that are "in" for 2015 that we thought looked fun!

Lunchbox Mix mini sweet peppers: For those that aren't fans of the spicy variety, these sweet peppers come in red, orange, and yellow and are about the size of a jalapeno. Perfect for snacking!

NuMex Easter ornamental peppers: These peppers come in ranging pastel colors such as lavender and yellow. They are easy to grow and bear fruit all summer long!

Allium Schubertii: This is actually an ornamental onion! It looks like fireworks though.

These also grow up to 24 inches—making it looks like the 4th of July in your garden.

Cuphea Vermillionaire: This one also resembles a firecracker! Its flowers often draw hummingbirds.

Blue Eyed Beauty Osteospermum: Quite the vibrant contrasting colors, this flower features a purple middle and yellow petals.

Gerbera "Revolution Orange": Another vibrant flower! This one is a very bright orange.

"Patio Baby" Eggplant: Growing your own produce isn't just for those with sprawling backyards anymore! Plants like this one are making their way to the forefront as mini-edibles.

"Mini Famous double Purple" calibrachoa: A flower that has the shape of a rose, but is actually unrelated (also doesn't require the same amount of work!)

The Kentucky Derby is May 2nd from 4:00pm to 7:30pm EST. You can watch it on NBC Sports Network. This tradition started in 1875.
